Santa Fe Society Notes

ORPHEUS AND PAN.

Orpheus still lives and his charm is as potent as ever. Pan still plays his pipes in leafy dells and lures willing mortals. It is well for the human race that it continues to respond to the harmonies that express every shade of emotion and that compel the heart to run the gamut of every passion that has swayed it since the world was young.

The man that hath no music in himself, Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds, Is fit for treasons, stratagems, and spoils; The motions of his spirit are dull as night, And his affections dark as Erebus: Let no such man be trusted.

No small gratitude therefore is owing to an impresario who will gather the choicest lyric flowers from Rossini, Tchaikowsky, Rubenstein, Chopin, Cadman, Nevin, Friml, and present them to an audience, as was done by Mrs. William J. Fauth on Thursday evening to an audience, delighted and appreciative. It was a program excellently balanced, well chosen and superbly rendered. Those who gave expression and voice to the masters of vocal art were: Mrs. Guy P. Harrington, Miss Ramona Beckner, Miss Evelyn McBride, pianists; Mrs. Ralph Henderson, violinist; Mrs. Fauth and Mr. Beckner, vocalists.

The concert opened daintily with Rossini's Overture to William Tell, a brilliant selection brilliantly played by Mrs. Harrington and Miss Beckner, who also concluded the program with a spirited piano duet. Mr. Beckner sang seven selections, two of them encores, each having an appeal of its own. The first was a rollicking "Ban Song" with here and there a tender, plaintive note which Mr. Beckner's voice made especially appealing. In the touching "Requiem" of Robert Louis Stevenson in the setting by Homer, Mr. Beckner moved his audience deeply, especially as he sang: Here he lies where he loved to be; Home is the sailor, home from sea, And the hunter from the hill. "Ever" by Sullivan was done full justice by Mr. Beckner, but it is probable, that in the "Invictus" by Huish, he rose to his greatest height, as he hurled defiance at fate and the gods, holding his audience spellbound. Bayard Taylor's "Redoubt Love Song," set to an Indian melody by Cadman, was well rendered. The encore, "Katy Malone," a sweet, appealing, characteristic Irish melody with a swing to it, was one of the best lyrics of the evening.

Mrs. Ralph Henderson again proved herself a consummate artist upon the violin. "Aus der Heimat" by Smetana, with its echoes of the merryment at festival times in the Black Forest, found a responsive echo and left nothing to be desired, while "Romance" by Friml was superbly rendered. "The Cry of Rachel" by Mrs. William J. Fauth tore at every heart string. She was the embodiment of a mother's despair seeking to force the very doors of Death, pouring out the anguish of a human soul as she cried: "Death, let me in!" so that she might be with her little one. There was pathos also, such as only a beautiful voice can express, in "Expectancy" by LaFarge, a favorite among singers. "Ah, Sad indeed My Heart," by Tchaikowsky, breathed something of the mystery and the spirit of the Russian folk songs. As an encore Mrs. Fauth sang "Those Endearing Young Charms," as perhaps, no Santa Fe audience had ever heard it before. It is in simple ballads that Mrs. Fauth excels, although in Nevin's "Serenade," she swayed her audience to rapturous applause that was well deserved. Mrs. Henderson with her violin obligato enhanced the deep impression made by Mrs. Fauth. Mrs. Henderson also sang with Mrs. Fauth in Hildach's "Passage Bird's Farewell," the duet being splendidly rendered with enthusiastic encored. Mrs. Fauth's also blending sympathetically with Mrs. Henderson's fine soprano.

Mrs. Guy P. Harrington interpreted with depth of understanding and masterly technique Rubinstein's famous descriptive opus, "Kannend-Gestow," and confirmed the impression that she is among the foremost pianists of the Southwest, with her rendition of the powerful, martial "Militaire Polonaise" of Chopin, in fact, it is to be doubted whether New Mexico has a more talented exponent of Chopin than Mrs. Harrington. The accompanists of the evening, Miss Evelyn McBride and Miss Beckner acquitted themselves with credit, of their important task. After the concert, a social hour was spent, the Women's Aid Society of the Presbyterian church serving refreshment. Mrs. Elk and Mrs. Reiss pouring, and the members of the Presbyterian choir serving. The officers of the Aid Society assisted in receiving. The Walter home on East Palace avenue, was thronged for the occasion, the guests numbering more than a hundred. The concert room was decorated with sprays of yellow roses and mock orange; the dining room with gorgeous Oriental poppies and Columbine. The concert was such a treat to music lovers and such a success, that a series of musical events is planned for the rest of the summer.

THE CANTATA DANIEL.
 One of the coming musical events is the concert on Sunday evening next in the Masonic Cathedral, signaling the opening of the Scottish Rite Reunion. The Cantata Daniel will be given by the Scottish Rite Masonic choir, with J. A. Jeancon at the pipe organ and R. C. Ormabee as Daniel. Several hundred visitors from out of town are expected and they may look forward confidently to a great musical treat.

PINAFORE TO BE GIVEN.
 The Elks are practicing assiduously for the performance of the ever popular and perennial "Pinafore." Sullivan's tuneful opera, Professor Ten Brock, who is in charge, has the choir in full swing each Monday and Thursday evening. A few individual parts are still to be given out. Mrs. Mary Meffe Lackey and Mrs. R. M. Henderson are among those who have leading parts. Prof. J. H. Wagner was cast for the Pirate leader but had to leave town on account of Institute work and the part is still open for some ambitious basso.

CHAMBER MUSIC.
 Mrs. Charles A. Haynes was hostess Tuesday afternoon at a concert of chamber music given for the benefit of the Woman's Board of Trade, being one of the sixty-four chain parties planned for this summer. Pink and white poinsettias formed the floral decorations. The artists rendering the program were: Mrs. Guy Harrington, pianist; Mrs. William J.

Fauth, contralto; A. W. Beckner, tenor; Miss Beckner, accompanist.
HOLD FAST YOUR DREAMS.
 Hold fast your dream!
 Pain waits for you,
 And care and fear are near—
 There is death, too—
 Death comes to every dream and death
 Will come to you.

Within your heart
 Keen one still, secret spot
 Where dreams may grow,
 And, sheltered so,
 May thrive and grow—
 Where doubt and fear are not,
 Oh, keep a place apart
 Within your heart
 For dreams to go!

Think still of lovely things that are not true.
 Let wish and magic work at will in you.
 Be sometimes blind to sorrow—make believe!
 Forget the calm that lies in disillusioned eyes.
 Though we all know that we must die,
 Yet, you and I
 May walk like gods and be
 Even now at home in immortality.

We know so many ugly things—
 Deceits and wrongs and quarrels.
 We know, alas! We know
 How swiftly go
 The color in the West,
 The bloom upon the flower,
 The bloom upon the heart,
 And Youth's blind hour.
 Oh, keep within your heart
 A place apart
 Where little dreams may go.
 May thrive and grow
 Hold fast your dream!

AN ARTISTIC RECITAL.
 Mrs. Winslow Skinner delighted Santa Feans not only with her splendid exhibit of water colors of Italian and California scenes, at the Old Palace, but on Wednesday noon gave a recital in the venerable old structure, that proved her to be a musician endowed with a voice of rare power and range. Not outside of the operatic stage is such musical talent commanded.

MANY SOCIAL AFFAIRS.
 It was a week of many social affairs, card club meetings and gatherings. Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. John H. Walker, under the auspices of the Woman's Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church, several score of women gathered to sew for the Red Cross. Similar affairs are planned by other organizations, Monday afternoon, Mrs. Stephenson entertained at her Hillside Avenue home, the Woman's Missionary Society. Friday afternoon, Mrs. Bob P. Johnston was hostess at a tea to two card clubs and other friends. Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Board of Trade, a dance was given in Liberty Hall.

 This week, the Loretto Commencement exercises will be a social feature. The Scottish Rite Masonic Reunion next week, will be the center of social activity, including dinners, teas and receptions. At the Masonic Cathedral, the Eastern Star will serve both luncheon and dinner for three days.

AT THE WITTMAN HOME.
 The home of Mrs. E. F. Wittman on Federal Place was the scene of much gaiety this week. Wednesday and Friday afternoons, Mrs. Wittman gave thimble and card parties, attended by scores of her friends. Her daughter, Miss Wittman gave a dancing party as a farewell to Miss Tingley before the latter left on her summer vacation.

HOME COOKING SALE.
 On Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank M. Chisney the Santa Fe Woman's club gave a home cooking sale and tea, the proceeds of which start the fund for the Woman's club house that is planned.

PATHWAY OF THE LIVING.
 The pathway of the living we can beautify and grace.
 We can line it deep with roses and make earth a happier place.
 But we've done all mortals can do when our prayers are softly said, For the souls of those that travel over the pathway of the dead.

The pathway of the living all our strength and courage needs. There we ought to sprinkle favors, there we ought to sow our deeds! There our smiles should be the brightest, there our kindest words be said. For the angels have the keeping of the pathway of the dead.
